There are many wealthy men in this country whose names will not be remembered by the coming generations, although they are today considered by the masses as the big bugs in the human puddle. The late Charles D. Eitzen, of Gasconade county, Missouri, who left an estate worth $800,000 in clean cash, is a pleasing exception to the general rule.
After dividing many thousands of his money equally among his relations both in this country and in Germany, in his will he gives to the county of Gasconade $50,000 to build a new court house; to the city schools of Herman, the county seat, $5,000 the interest on which to pay teachers' salaries; to provide iron seats for the city park, $500; to the Evangelical church, the Catholic church, and the Methodist church, $1000 each; and to the Masonic lodge $1000. The $59,500 spent for the public good of that town will build monuments that will last while the names of other hundreds, aye, thousands of millionaires are lost in oblivion.

How Did She Know.

Friend DEMOCRAT:

Will you allow me to lay in my troubles for the winter?

I was husking corn some time ago and as I went to a shock of corn a pole-cat came out and told me to leave there; I said to him I was going to husk that shock of corn; he said I should not, for it was his house. I told him I was the biggest and I would husk it; he said he was there first and had a preemption. I told him I would bet him a dollar that I would husk it. He said he had no dollar but he would bet a scent, and he put up the bet, and a good strong scent it was. I got full value. So I struck him a skite with a stick and stepped back for breath and stumbled over a corn stub and fell down.

While I was down he had things all his own way for a while, but when I got up I made him repent, and when the battle was over one of us was hanging up in a peach tree; I could not tell from the smell which one of us it was, for we smelled so much alike.

But I husked that shock of corn all the same.

Then when I went home to dinner my wife accused me of being in bad company. How do you think she found it out? I had not told her.

Your Friend.

CORN HUSKINSON.

The valentine box supper held in district 93, Saturday evening last, was well attended and enjoyed by those present. After a short literary program the boxes were sold, to the highest bidder, bringing the neat sum of $8.10 which will be used in buying a library for the school. The best of order prevailed during the evening. The teacher, Miss Julia Miller, and those who aided her, are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment.
Many expressed the wish that 93 would have another entertainment in the near future.

A lot of salted hides were stolen from Dickson & Shore's slaughter house one night last week, and hid under a culvert near by. Geo. Moore was driving by and saw the hides, and reported to the butchers, who recovered the stolen property, and are in a fair way to catch the thief.

Pawnee Rock's Friday Night Club last week elected the following officers: President, K. G. Clark; Vice President, Miss Lora Lewis; Secretary, Miss Tilly Williams; Treasurer, Miss Pet Gano.
Executive committee, Mrs. J. R. Baker, Dr. Bartle and Elmer Bloom. The club meets next with Mrs. Hardy.

At the Masonic Grand lodge meeting at Wichita this week Dr. A. H.
Connett of this city was elected Illustrious Grand Principle Conductor of Work.

On Tuesday and Thursday of last week the farmers in the neighborhood of Heizer banded together and started out on a wolf hunt. Tuesday's hunt resulted in a waterhaul. On Thursday about 100 men were out in the gang.
One long, hungry, scrawny chicken thief was scared up and started in the direction of apparent annihilation, but in some manner slipped through the crowd and escaped. While no wolves were killed, the boys say a jolly time was enjoyed. Another hunt was arranged for Tuesday of this week, but we have not yet heard of the result.

We get a tip from one of the "fans" that there is no doubt but that Great Bend will have a strong base ball team the coming season. Theo. Griffith has already secured the North Pole from Dr. Hensen with which to make bats for our shamrocks, and Bob. Allison has arranged with Edison to have every ball that our club uses duly photographed by the new X ray process in order that they may be assured of the balls proper construction.
